Season of Unicorns is a one-page setting fdeveloped with Breathless about a blessing of unicorns that must survive hunters who want to kill them for the healing powers of their horns.

Everything was peace and quiet...

All was peace and quiet in the forest until the king fell very ill and the royal physician determined that the only cure was a unicorn's horn.

Soon, professional unicorn hunters appeared, along with people seeking the gold reward offered for your horns.

It's Unicorn Season!

Creating Your Unicorn

When creating your unicorn, you must choose its name, pronouns, and coat color. Then, you must distribute a d10, a d8, and a d6 among the six skills (Gallop, Bite, Kick, Neigh, Instincts, and Mythology). The remaining skills each receive a d4.

Skills

The 6 skills are:

Gallop: It's used for running, jumping, and dodging. It's also used for ramming or dragging a opponent.

Bite: It is useful for tasks that require precision, such as manipulating a small object, untying a knot by biting, or removing a door lock without making noise.

Kick: Besides being a way to attack your enemies, it also allows you to hit large objects hard and, for example, knock down doors, overturn tables, or open barrels.

Neigh: Neighing is your way of communicating with and manipulating humans. You can try to attract and seduce maidens and youths, intimidate peasants into giving you food, and frighten hunters into fleeing in terror.

Instincts: Determine your ability to survive in the forest, orient yourself, find water and food, follow tracks and hide your own, hide from your enemies or plan ambushes against them.

Mythology: You are a mythological being and have extensive knowledge of mythology. You know things like how you can only be stopped with golden ropes or how you can be lured into a trap using virgin maidens and youths, etc. You also have knowledge of other magical forest beings like elves and gnomes.

When there's a challenge to overcome, you roll to see how it plays out. You only need to roll if what you want to do is risky.

The GM announces that your action could be risky and dangerous; then you choose a skill and roll the die corresponding to your score.

Check Result

| | |
|---|---|
| 1-2 | You fail, and there's an additional complication. |
| 3-4 | You succeed, but there's a complication. |
| 5+ | You succeed. The higher the result, the better the effect. |

Being a unicorn hunted for its healing horn is difficult, so each roll reduces the score of the skill used by one level to a minimum of d4.

Fatigue

When you fail as a result of one of your actions, the GM may decide that you receive 1 level of fatigue. If your character reaches 4 levels of fatigue, you are exhausted.

When exhausted, failing a dangerous action means falling into the clutches of a hunter or mercenary, or being mortally wounded.

You can consume a rainbow apple, to remove 2 points of fatigue. Alternatively, you can hide in a safe place for a while to remove 1 point of fatigue.

Magic Horn

In dangerous or complicated situations, you can attempt to use your magic horn and make a d12 roll instead of a roll using your current skill rank.

Once you have used your magic horn, you cannot use it again until you rest in a crystal clear water stream.

Crystal clear water streams

Everyone knows that unicorns love to drink from crystal-clear streams and rest to the soothing sound of their waters.

Resting and drinking from a crystal-clear stream allows the unicorn blessing to take a short break to calm down, assess the situation, and look for a way to escape their pursuers or face the dangers ahead.

To find and drink from a stream, you must be out of danger in a quiet place, far from the sight of hunters. At such times, you can search for a pristine stream.

If the herd rests in one of these places, it recovers all lost skill dice levels and restores the magic of its horn.

Pertrechos

No puedes llevar más que tres objetos, uno en la grupa, otro en la boca y otro enganchado en tu cuerno. Pueden usarse en lugar de tus habilidades. Comienzan con un nivel de dado que disminuye tras cada uso. Al reducirse a un d4, el objeto se rompe, se pierde o simplemente desaparece de la historia.

Los objetos en la grupa tienen que tener una forma adecuada que evite que se caigan. Puedes llevar una manta o unas cuerdas, incluso un cuerpo humano, pero no una copa o una bandeja, ya que a la mínima se caerán. Los objetos en cuernos y boca no pueden ser muy grandes.

Llevar un objeto en la boca supone que no puedes Morder y llevarlo enganchado en el cuerno que no puedes usar su Magia.

Puedes dejarlos caer y usar Morder o Magia, pero los objetos se dañarán y perderán un nivel de dado.

Forage

Cuando la situación lo permita, puedes hacer una tirada de forrajear para buscar objetos de los habitantes feéricos, hierbas con propiedades mágicas, manzanas arcoíris, etc. Ten cuidado porque puedes encontrarte con cosas que no querías, como un grupo de mercenarios.

Para hacer una tirada de forrajear debes lanzar un d12 y consultar la siguiente tabla.

| d12 | Forage |
|---|---|
| 1-2 | Trouble is here... |
| 3-4 | There's trouble ahead... |
| 5-6 | Add a d6 item |
| 7-8 | Add a d8 item |
| 9-10 | Add a d10 item or a rainbow apple |
| 11-12 | Add a d12 item or a rainbow apple |

Si no tienes claro que obtienes con la tirada de forraje puedes tirar un d10 en la siguiente tabla.

| d10 | Objeto |
|---|---|
| 1 | Hojas de acónito |
| 2 | Herramientas de gnomo |
| 3 | Fuego fatuo |
| 4 | Cepo de cazador |
| 5 | Raíz de mandrágora |
| 6 | Piedra con runas de las hadas |
| 7 | Hojas de belladona |
| 8 | Trébol de cuatro hojas |
| 9 | Armas de goblins |
| 10 | Polvo de hadas |

Hunters

Humans have been hunting you ever since the king fell very ill, which is why encountering one of them is potentially dangerous.

Some will be brutal and bloodthirsty with their bows and swords, others cunning and treacherous with their traps and poisons; none will ever come with good intentions. You can trust neither the virginal lads nor the chaste maidens.

Humans and unicorns cannot communicate. Humans don't understand the neighs of unicorns, and unicorns don't understand human words.

El bosque

El bosque donde vives es un lugar mágico en el que hay más criaturas mágicas, gnomos, duendes, dríades, etc. Pueden ser de ayuda o meterte en más problemas de los que ya tienes.

Hadas: Caprichosas y volátiles, solo les importa divertirse. Quizás te presten una ayuda inestimable o simplemente pasen de ti y se rían y bailen, mientras luchas por sobrevivir.

Trata solo de interactuar con ellas cuando todo lo demás haya fallado porque normalmente nunca sale bien para ti.

Gnomos: Trabajadores y constantes, siempre están atareados haciendo todo tipo de cosas en el bosque, desde guardando comida para el invierno a curando animales heridos o buscando hierbas curativas para sus emplastos. Puedes fiarte de ellos y pedirles ayuda, pero no pases con tus peticiones o desaparecerán y no les volverás a encontrarlos jamás.

Es importante que les devuelvas los favores que te hayan hecho.

Goblins: La codicia por el oro de la recompensa del rey los ha puesto en tu contra y están buscando la forma de cazarte y venderte a los humanos al mejor postor. No son fuertes, pero son muchos y suelen hacer buenas trampas.

Ándate con ojo si hay goblins cerca.

Huargos: Quizás los únicos depredadores naturales que tienen los unicornios. Estos lobos de gran tamaño son listos y cazan en manada y cuando encuentran tu rastro de sangre no cesan en su empeño por atraparte y devorarte.

Tendrás que usar tus mejores trucos para darles esquinazo y evitar sus emboscadas.

Licencia

This work is based on Breathless, product of Fari RPGs, developed and authored by René-Pier Deshaies-Gélinas, and licensed for our use under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.

Developed under license CC BY 4.0. Royalty-free images from Wikipedia and Freepik.